Title / short description	Removal of EAC and UKCA + difference in serial number position
Affected article category	Energy monitoring
Change category	Marking, Approval
Change number	CCM250185-00
Reason for PCN/PDN Revision

Purpose/objective of the change

Change of printing

Detailed description of the change

As part of our ongoing product maintenance, we would like to inform you that the UKCA and EAC markings will no longer be applied to the attached items in the future.

EAC: The EAC certification will be removed, as the existing certificate is no longer valid. Renewal or re-certification is not planned.

UKCA: The CE marking fulfills all relevant requirements, so an additional UKCA marking is not required. To ensure clarity and uniformity in the product labeling, this will be removed. CE marking remains unchanged. This change has no impact on the product specification, quality or conformity with the applicable EU directives.

Additionally, we have observed variations in the positioning of the serial number on our PACT MCR current transformers. Some units display the serial number on the label, while others have it positioned on the side of the device. We want to emphasize that this change is purely optical and does not affect the product's technical specifications or quality.
